

ALL LEADERS CONFIDENT OF RESULT, THEY DECLARE

CAMPAIGN OF BITTER WORDS DRAWS TO END

All Old Strategems of By-Gone Years Have Been Employed

Washington, Nov. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—The great American political classic of 1924 is approaching its day of decision in a shower of sharp words and a fog of rival predictions.

In its final stages it has brought into play all the old familiar strategems, modernized to fit an age of radio, movies and senatorial investigations and laid out on a new scale to appeal to every remote sub-division of the ever-growing American electorate.

The last day of active campaigning finds most of the principals east of the Mississippi seeking advantage in a sector long regarded as almost dormant. Meantime in every nook and corner of the republic lesser lights are shining their brightest to guide the voter along the pathway of party prejudice.

Coolidge Keeps Out of It.
Keeping to a policy adopted at the inception of the campaign, President Coolidge alone among the candidates for the highest office, will remain outside the rushing maelstrom of oratory that heralds to the world another presidential election Saturday night. While the New York democracy is rallying to Governor John W. Davis, concluding his platform campaign in Carnegie Hall tonight, and Senator La Follette is summing up his case against the old parties in Convention Hall at Cleveland, Mr. Coolidge expects to remain quietly at home in the White House—a spectator with a front seat beside the quiet Potomac.

But on Monday night the President will deliver a final election-eve message to the American people by radio, speaking after Mr. Davis likewise has addressed the great invisible jury of sovereign voters through a nationwide system of broadcasting stations. Thus for the first time will the nation listen to two presidential candidates as if from one platform.

Dawes Ends Drive Tonight.
Charles G. Dawes, who was borne the brunt of the forensic battle for the republican ticket, will close his campaign tonight at South Bend, Ind., after having followed his famous dipper pipe across many states. Governor Charles W. Bryan will wind up in his home state of Nebraska after a speaking trip that has taken him over much of the western country where the name of Bryan for many years has been a political institution. Senator Wheeler, the only nominee on any of the three tickets to carry his campaign all the way to the Pacific coast, will conclude it with a night meeting on the Atlantic seaboard—in New York City.

From all three camps today there issued the usual pre-election expressions of absolute satisfaction and unbounded confidence. Each group insisted most emphatically that its particular candidates had not been weakened by evidence produced before the senate campaign fund investigation, although each appeared quite convinced that the casualties among the opposition would be heavy. Meantime the committee members, having adjourned their hearings both in Washington and Chicago, assembled here to draft a statement for submission to the voters before election day.

Final Figures Unknown.
The final figures on campaign contributions have not yet become a matter of record but to date the republican total stands far in the lead, approaching $4,000,000.

With the three-cornered presidential fight filling the eye of the nation, the congressional campaign has had to take a back seat from the start and seems likely not to come into its own in the way of national attention until the returns begin to roll in on Tuesday night. Interest in it has been further localized by a variety of unusual bipartisan combinations in the respective states. The republican and democratic managers today made their usual claims to overwhelming victory and the La Follette leaders indignantly suggested that whichever of the old parties secures a paper majority, the followers of the Wisconsin senator are certain to contract their grip on the balance of power in senate and house.

Besides the entire membership of the house, 34 senators are to be chosen Tuesday; enough to upset the present slender republican majority should the tide of fortune turn to the democrats. Governors are to be elected in thirty-four states, including New York, where Alfred E. Smith and Theo. Roosevelt have staged a battle royal.

Dr. Raymond Worsley and Emily Rush left Saturday evening for a two-day duck hunt near Lake Wales, Fla.

TWO THOUSAND DIXON PEOPLE HEARD CONCERT

Local Artists in Chicago Proved Real Entertainers

Last night was Dixon's night in the air, and over two thousand people were around the corner of Galena avenue and Second street to hear the program broadcasted from WMAQ, the Chicago Daily News Station, Hotel LaSalle, Chicago. The program was arranged by the Dixon Chamber of Commerce and was given by artists from Dixon.

The air was clear and the entire program was plainly heard on the streets of Dixon for a radius of two blocks from the tower amplifiers. Every one enjoyed hearing this radio program of the local people. Every one on the program deserves a great deal of credit in making this program a success. Numerous calls were received at the Studio from people all over the country, asking that certain numbers be repeated, but on account of limited time, only the original program could be given.

The success of the entire program was due to the address of Mr. Hallenberg, musical numbers by the Dixon Theater Orchestra, the violin duets by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Westgor, the solos rendered by Mrs. Maude Ames Goodsell, and Mr. A. M. Rawls and the Trio by Madam Hess-Burr and her pupils, Mrs. Wilson Dysart, Mrs. Lester Wilhelm and Miss Lucille Miller.

The directors of the Chicago Daily News Studio stated that last night's program was the best that had been arranged and broadcasted by an city from WMAQ and Dixon was requested to give another evening entertainment at a future date. This in itself speaks very highly for this excellent program that was arranged by the Dixon Chamber of Commerce.

Walsh Claims Morgan Co. is Underwriting C. O. P.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 1.—In an analysis of evidence placed before the senate campaign fund investigating committee, Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Senator La Follette declared today it had been shown that at least seventy-five per cent of the republican contributions reported to date "have come directly" from the representatives of great corporate interests.

"Upon the basis of the data now made public," he said, "it can be stated as a fact that the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., has underwritten the republican campaign fund."

Troops Sent to Niles, O., in Klan War

BULLETS WON THE BALLOT

By Albert Apple

Your ancestors were slaves. And you don't have to go back far in history. They may not have been actually put up on the block and sold to the highest bidder. But they were slaves of their rulers—without any voice in how they were to be governed.

Bullets won the ballot for you. It took much bloodshed, centuries of dogged effort, before the common people obtained the power to rule themselves. Today every American citizen has what those millions of the past struggled for—self-government.

It is a sacred inheritance, this privilege of being governed by a majority instead of exploited by and for a minority.

But unless you vote, you might just as well be ruled by a czar. Failing to vote, you have no choice in government.

In the 1920 presidential election, less than 27 million Americans voted, while 25 millions who were eligible to vote stayed away from the polls.

This brings us close to government by minority, which would undo centuries upon centuries of struggle for political freedom.

Rally to preserve democracy—government by majority.

Vote without fail! Vote without fail! Vote without fail!

Your vote is needed! Your vote is needed! Your vote is needed!

FRANKLIN GROVE PASTOR BOOSTS GOVERNOR SMALL

Rev. Jones of Ashton and Franklin Argues for Straight Ticket.

The following contributed article is offered by Rev. Thomas London Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Franklin Grove and Ashton, in this county, and should be read by every voter.

October 31, 1924.—We ministers have wisely or unwisely refrained from discussing questions of purely political nature in our pulpits. This restraint on our part is not due to any timidity or fear of public sentiment—but rather to the deep reverence we have inherited for the pulpit and to a deep conviction that the pulpit was never meant for that purpose.

However, we reserve unrestricted rights as citizens of this great nation to discuss political questions and parties outside of pulpits and through our public press.

We have received a large number of pamphlets of late denouncing Governor Len Small in a most bitter manner. We have read all the material and we find that it is all the same. The contents of these pamphlets do not reflect upon the integrity of Governor Small, but rather upon the authors of them. These pamphlets reveal clearly the low degree of esteem and respect their authors have for the people of Illinois. These pamphlets are simply an insult upon the intelligence of the people of this State. Do the authors of this filthy and cheap propaganda think they are going to bribe the voters merely by the cry for a "Political House Cleaning" contained in these pamphlets? Do they really think that we are going to sell our "Sacred Ballot" for a bowl of mud-soup? Do they think that they are going to deceive us into believing that they are the only honest people in this State simply by crying—"Unclean, Unclean," against the Governor of

LARGE AMOUNT OF DAMAGE IS DONE IN DIXON

Hallowe'en Depredations Greater Than Usual.

Depredations usual to Hallowe'en night, were numerous last evening despite the fact that several squads of special officers patrolled both sides of the river and hauled about 25 young men to the police station. Weapons were hauled away, signs torn down and destroyed in some instances and many of the mischief makers were gathered together and taken to the station.

A Ford touring car belonging to John Edginton, 604 Eighteenth ave., Sterling, was hauled over the river bank at the end of East Everett st., but caught on a set of steps and did not go into the water. A plate glass window was broken in a residence on the north side, the scene of all the malicious mischief, when several young men in a Ford touring car drove by and threw a rock into it. The same residence was visited a year ago and windows were broken.

At the Dr. Hess Burr residence, considerable damage was done. The residents were in Chicago participating in the broadcasting of a Dixon program from the Daily News Station and the destructive gang tore down trellises, tramped flower beds and destroyed shrubbery. Special officers in automobiles patrolled both sides of the river and saved much property from destruction.

Victims of Knife Battle at Wausung are Arrested

Frank Polson, colored, and Louis Hernandez, Mexican, both of whom were terribly slashed in an affray in a labor camp at Wausung last Sunday evening, were released from the hospital this morning. As they were about to leave the institution Chief Deputy George Banning of Oregon, formed a committee in waiting and armed with a state warrant for both men, took them for a ride to Oregon. Following the arrest of Frank James, who admitted wielding the knife in the affray Sunday evening, and who is being held in the county jail at Oregon, warrants charging disorderly conduct were also sworn out for the two victims.

NO DESERTIONS, SAYS RISLEY OF CURRENT RUMORS

Regular Legion Team to Take Field Tomorrow Against DeWitt.

Contrary to rumors circulated this week, of the thinning out of the Dixon Legion's football team, ranks, Coach Risley announced today that he would use his usual string of players in tomorrow's game with the De Witt Independents. Early in the week and following the Aurora game, reports were circulated that both Cone and Olson had turned in their uniforms and would not play with Dixon in any of their remaining games. The coach stated today that both men have been present at practice through out the week and that there is no foundation for these rumors.

Because of crippled players, some changes will be necessary in the back field tomorrow. Hess and Heinz, are out of the game suffering from injuries and Cortwright will not be able to play. This will give Schofield another opportunity and he will probably start at right half, with Vaughn playing left. Lazier at full and Cone calling the signals at quarter as in the past. Downs will also be given a chance in the back field. In the line no changes will be made, the same lineup to be presented. The game will be called promptly at 2:30.

JONES' RECORD IN CHILD ATTACKER HELD UP TO VIEW

Gov. Small Asks Judge Why He Paroled a Human Fiend.

A newly revealed and heretofore unknown record of Judge Norman L. Jones, on pardon and parole subjects, is the basis for a scathing denunciation in Chicago Friday by Governor Small of his Democratic opponent. Certified copies of the indictment, the verdict, the sentence and the order of release upon probation in the Charles Wright case from Morgan county, were displayed to the audience by Governor Small as he told of the release by Judge Jones of a child attacker, caught in the act of assaulting an eight year old girl.

Governor Small asks Judge Jones why he released Charles Wright upon probation, instead of sentencing him to 14 years at the penitentiary, as the law requires upon conviction for the crime of assault to rape.

The text of Governor Small's arraignment of his opponent follows: Keeping up the campaign of lies, vilifications and abuse, originated against me by the Chicago Tribune, Judge Jones, my democratic opponent, hopes to walk into political power over the bleached bones of the unfortunate.

In a final appeal to the sex prejudices of the "Women of Illinois," Judge Jones and his campaign management have sent broadcast thru the state, a pamphlet entitled, "The Shame of the Small Administration is only exceeded by the Shame."

Those who know me, my friends and acquaintances in Kankakee County, where I have spent the years of my life, and those who know me politically, will tell you truthfully that Len Small, neither politically nor privately, ever committed a shameful act in his lifetime.

Again I repeat that I would not, upon my own volition, make lives and liberties of human beings an issue in any campaign. Many men have tried to walk into political favor over the bleached bones of unfortunate. It cannot be done. My Democratic opponent, Judge Jones, has tried.

For the benefit of a few credulous call attention to a few of the most ridiculous things we are asked to be-

Governor Small is guilty of using the political campaign. Our answer is that in doing this he is using the

IS IT RAINING, LITTLE FLOWER?
Is it raining little flower?
Too much sun would wither thee,
Twirl shine again.
The sky is very black, 'tis true,
But just behind it shines
The blue.
Art thou weary, tender heart?
Be glad of pain;
In sorrow the sweetest things will
Will grow
As flowers in the rain.
God watches and thou will have sun
When clouds their perfect work
Have done.

Youngsters Enjoy Hallowe'en Party

Mary, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Kennedy, entertained a company of sixteen girls and boys at a Hallowe'en party last evening and from all reports they all spent a wonderfully happy evening. The party was from 8 till 10:30 and they played Hallowe'en games, bobbing for apples and playing other various Hallowe'en games. Delicious Hallowe'en refreshments were served by Mrs. Kennedy after the youngsters had enjoyed a promenade around the North Side. Hallowe'en decorations added to the enjoyment of all present.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Prevents Tarnish.
If you apply a thin coating of colorless lacquer such as you can get at any paint shop to your brass candlesticks and ornaments they will not tarnish and will need slight attention from you on cleaning day.

Cook Long Time.
All cereals are wholesome for long-time cooking.

Use Apples.
Apple sauce, apple salad, or baked apples are a good accompaniment to meat course for a dinner.

For Sandwiches.
Any left-over meat may be potted and used for sandwiches by rubbing it smooth with butter or salad oil and seasoning well with mustard, salt and cayenne or paprika.

Heat Mixing Bowl.
To cream butter quickly, heat the mixing bowl before putting in the sugar and butter.

Menus for a Family

Tested by SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—Halves of grapefruit, scrambled eggs, broiled bacon, cornmeal pancakes, sirup whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Vegetable soup, cheese sandwiches, hearts of lettuce with lemon juice and oil, apricot whip, whole wheat bread, milk, tea.
Dinner—Roasted chicken, rice croquettes, glass sweet potatoes, apple celery-nut salad, ivory cream with chocolate sauce, oatmeal bread, milk, coffee.

Of course the juniors will not indulge in pancakes for breakfast but father and the older children should be humored once in a while.
A child of three or four years can eat the white meat of the chicken but should not be given any of the dressing if the bird is stuffed.

Vegetable Soup.
This rule is for the left-over portions of a porterhouse steak. The bone and "tail" of a steak usually go begging at the dinner table, the bone performs and the tail by tradition. A steak broiled rare has much goodness left in it and it should not be thrown away.

Cut the fat from the meat and cut the meat of the end of the steak into small pieces. Trim off any meat hanging to the bone. Put great and bone into sauce pan, cover with cold water and let stand one hour. Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer forty minutes. Add three or four potatoes, pared and cut in thin slices, 1 large onion minced and 2 of 3 coarse blades of celery. Boil until vegetables are tender. Remove bone and serve. Salt should be added when the vegetables are half cooked.

Rub the soup through a coarse strainer for a young child but children of school age should eat some of the meat. As much water can be used as desired. The "soup" can be in the nature of a stew or a real soup with vegetables and bits of meat.

Apricot Whip.
One-half pound dried apricots, one cup sugar, 1 orange, 4 eggs (whites), 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Scrub apricots well and let stand overnight in cold water to cover. Squeeze tender and rub through a sieve. There should be 1 cup of pulp. Add sugar and juice of orange and cook until thick. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and rry with salt. Add apricot pulp and pour into a deep pan. Put pan in a larger pan, pour in boiling water to three-fourths depth of the whip and bake until firm to the touch, about half an hour.

Serve cold with whipped cream or sauce made with the yolks of the eggs. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Golden Wedding at Diller, Nebraska

A clipping from the Diller, Nebraska, News, will be of much interest to Dixonites as Mrs. Mary C. Gorton is a sister of Mr. Hill and Mrs. Hill is an aunt of Postmaster John E. Moyer. The article from the News follows:

Wednesday, Oct. 8th, there was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hill in Diller an event interesting to themselves as well as to the friends and relatives who assembled to extend congratulations and well wishes. We refer to the fiftieth anniversary of their married life. The function was an all day affair and occurred at their home in Diller.

Andrew J. Hill, son of Nathan and Julia Hill was born at Beachaven, Lucerne county, Pa., April 24, 1832. He came of a family of seven sons and four daughters and has reached the age of seventy-two. Katharine Deal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Deal was born at Dixon, Ill., July 11, 1853, and was married to Andrew J. Hill, the 8th of Oct. 1874.

In the year of 1885 they moved to Kansas and settled on a farm south of Diller where they lived until 1921 when they moved to their present home in Diller.

Ten children were born of this union, two dying in infancy the eight living are as follows: Edward E. Hill, Diller; George L., Randolph; Leslie J., Diller; Winfield W., Beatrice and Charles E. at home; Mrs. Margaret Mann, West Unity, Ohio; Mrs. Anna Marsteller, Diller and Miss Hatie Hill at home. All were present at the celebration. There are fourteen grand children and one great grand child.

About thirty-five guests assembled to share in the pleasures of the day and the bounteous dinner served at the noon hour. The decorations of the dining room were yellow and white with a handsome bouquet of roses.

There were a number of handsome and appropriate presents, a couple of rockers, some silverware, from distant relatives and twenty-five dollars in gold from the children.

Sharing the joys and sorrows of fifty years is an experience that does not come to all but it has been the lot of this estimable couple. To such a couple the community is indebted for their labor and help in the development of the country. To them is given the pleasure of seeing their children grow to manhood and womanhood and do honor to them. The meeting of relatives and friends was a very pleasant affair.

Hallowe'en Party and Dance Enjoyed

Thursday evening twenty-five employees of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company enjoyed a Hallowe'en party and dance. Through the courtesy of Charles Engle the party was held in his studio at 90 Galena avenue. The studio was beautifully decorated in the Hallowe'en colors with numerous spiders, cats, bats and witches suspended from the ceiling and the witches cauldron was a popular place throughout the evening.

Every person was provided with grand horn and entered the grand march. Miss Decker received the prize for the best ladies' costume and Ralph Salzman received the prize for the best men's costume.

Each guest had an opportunity of going through the home of the spooks which was located on the second floor. The stairway was dark with ghosts parading up and down and the rooms below had all of the usual Hallowe'en tricks. In the center of the studio was a large yellow bag containing the fortune of each person. In Mrs. Ewald Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bradner, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Larson, Jerry Thompson and Miss Helen Bullock.

THE FEATURE OF GOWN

Ornate in materials but not in line is this afternoon gown of crepe silk lace over henna-colored chamoisee bordered with flying squirrel in soft brown. A unique effect is gained in the tie, which extends to the hemline, though generous looped up at the waistline. This is an excellent model for the woman of generous build.

Enjoyed Masque Ball Last Eve

Through the kindness of Dr. and Mrs. Warren G. Murray and the staff of the Dixon state hospital, more than two hundred patients and employees enjoyed a Hallowe'en mask ball last evening. The laundry building which is being used as an amusement hall was decorated in keeping with the season and a very enjoyable evening was spent the costumes were grotesque and showed much work on the part of patients who have been working for several days arranging their costumes. Prizes were awarded and the evening spent in dancing. Their regular dancing party for patients and employees which was to have been held Monday evening was postponed and the mask ball last evening took its place in a most successful manner.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

• YOUNG FELLOWS ANGRY.
Since when has the City of Dixon adopted Ku Klux methods of law and order?

Last night four young fellows went to the police station to bail out a friend. Without any accusation whatever they were locked up for several hours. Upon being released, they were met at the door of the police station by several Dixon officers of the law. Each officer held a blacksnake and as the boys passed out of the station, they were beaten by the officers and chased up the street. Some of the boys still have black and blue marks on their bodies. Mothers, how would you like to have your sons treated in this manner? Is this 1924 methods of Dixon law and order or is it Ku Klux methods?

The Four Young Fellows.

WHY NOT TELL THE TRUTH?

Editor—An article appeared on the front page of the Dixon Telegraph Oct. 31 that was untruthful in its more essential statements.

It is stated the national debt is $20,000,000,000. The national debt is over $26,000,000,000. It said if the government took over the railroads the total debt would be increased by $40,000,000,000. The Interstate Commission have recently placed a total valuation on all the railroad property in the United States at $18,900,000,000. LaFollette and other valuation experts say that this is approximately 25 per cent to 30 per cent too high. So much for that. And here is what they are doing over in Canada under government ownership of the railroads.

In 1920 the Canadian National had an operating deficit of $37,024,395; but in 1923 it showed an operating surplus of $20,236,363. Thus in three years paying off the deficit of over $37,000,000

THE HIDE AND THE TAIL.

One of the humorous phases of the present presidential campaign is the manner in which democrats are appealing to the republicans to save them from themselves.

Democrats are calling upon republicans to prepare to vote for Davis in the event of a deadlock in the house of representatives, to prevent Charles W. Bryan from becoming vice president and thereby acting as president.

Although it appears now that there is less chance of the election going into the house of representatives than at any other time in the campaign, democrats have been putting forth propaganda in consideration of such a situation. In the house of representatives five states will be deadlocked so they can not cast on the presidency, because of equal numbers of republicans and democrats in their congressional delegations. Democrats are advancing the thought that it will require the switching of only one republican of each of these delegations to the democratic side to cast the state vote for Davis, and that republicans will be so inclined to keep Bryan from becoming president through election to the vice presidency by the senate.

Because of the number of republicans concerned in the five delegations, it is impossible to predict what they will do. But republicans may fail to see the difference between democrats that the democrats themselves profess to see. They may be unable to see why Davis should be appointed and Bryan committed to the lower regions.

It is within possibilities that they will tell the democrats that they must assume full responsibility for any democrat who reaches the white house. Using a rural expression, they may say, Let the tail go with the hide.

If the democrats are afraid Bryan will become the chief executive through chaos that will follow failure to elect in the usual manner, they still have time and opportunity to vote for Coolidge and to end such possibilities.

It may be that republicans will not care to share responsibility even for placing John W. Davis in the white house. Should a deal be made whereby republicans would elect Davis to the presidency on a trade for Dawes in the vice presidency, what assurance is there that Mr. Bryan would not be made secretary of state, or that he would not be given some other such position of prominence? It would be only common decency among democrats, and we are told that Bryan was the choice of Davis for the second place on the ticket. Would Davis dare throw him overboard now to grasp the presidency for himself?

The democrats plea that the republicans save them from themselves at least brings humor to the situation.

THE COMPLICATED MR. McADOO.

There was nothing the matter with Mr. McAdoo during the months he was campaigning for the nomination, but the moment the Democratic convention turned him down his health called him to Europe. Upon his return he permitted himself to be photographed with Candidate Davis, and we were told that he was to make some speeches in behalf of his party. But demands of health again intervened and what is described as a "minor operation" will keep him off the speakers' platform for another period of time. It is not impossible that a complication of some sort will extend his retirement beyond Nov. 4.

Governor Al Smith, that other sterling leader of Democracy who shared honors with McAdoo at the New York convention, made a great show of party loyalty following the Davis nomination. Heralded by the blare of many trumpets and the shrieks of his East Side rooters, he strode upon the platform and told the world that he was about to cast aside his coat and vest and work heart and soul for the election of Davis. But the coat and vest still adorn the Smith torso, while the wearer sticks close to New York and gives undivided attention to his own re-election as governor.

The bitter convention contest that alienated the two principal leaders of Democracy, McAdoo and Smith, from the Davis following has spread its influence throughout the rank and file of the party. The Democratic campaign is chiefly notable for its lack of enthusiasm. Mr. Davis goes through the motions expected of a candidate, but what he says and his manner of saying it have aroused no response. Democrats who permit their emotions to get the better of their intelligence are going over to the LaFollette camp where there is plenty of excitement. Those old liners who believe in the Constitution and stability of government are moving into the Coolidge column.

Los Angeles Times: Senator Brookhart's effort to read Calvin Coolidge out of the Republican Party only shows him up as a bum reader.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 12—THE TWINS COME TO YUM YUM LAND

When the King of Yum Yum Land got the magic fork and the magic teapot, he tucked them under his arm and said to his subjects:

"Good-bye, my good people. I've been king of Yum Yum Land long enough. I'm tired of chopping off people's heads, and signing papers, and deciding what wig I'll wear each morning. My good peddler friend who gave me this magic teapot and fork is going to be king in my place. I am going to live in my hunting lodge in the forest."

With that he strode three strides to the door and was gone, fork, teapot and all.

No sooner had he gone than the peddler came out of his hiding place and strode three strides up to the throne and sat down.

"I'm king now," said he. "Fall down and bump your heads."

So the subjects all knelt down and bumped their heads, all but the cook, who felt very badly over the way he had been treated, and sneaked out of a side door.

Then he went back to his kitchen and sulked, for he felt that he should at least be Lord High Caretaker of the Bord Cages.

Off in the forest the king reached his hunting lodge. First he took off his hat and he took off his coat and then he sat down before a blazing fire, for it was getting pretty cold and kings mustn't be allowed to have cold hunting lodges in case they should decide to take a notion to go hunting and follow a deer and get tired out and night be coming on and too far from the castle to go back and—

There! What was I talking about? Oh, yes. The King sat down in front of the fire.

"Now," said he. "I am going to have a feast. A real feast and no bothersome cooks about or anything."

It was only half past four in the afternoon and the king was still full of his roasted butterflied and soda water, but he didn't care about that.

So he said to the magic teapot: "Go do your best, go do your worst. Or, teapot, dear, I'll die of thirst."

And he said to the magic fork: "Oh magic fork, I'd like a treat. Please see what you can find to eat."

Instantly the teapot and the fork went clackity, clack to the door and disappeared down the road.

Now right overhead, if the king had chanced to look out of the window, he would have seen as queer a sight as a walking fork and teapot.

He would have seen a flying dust-pan, and on it, sitting very comfortably, a boy and girl and a fat old man in a green suit. They were no others than Daddy Gander and the Twins.

They had just arrived in Yum Yum Land and they were looking down to see if they could catch a glimpse of the very fork the king had sent to do his errand.

It didn't take Nick's sharp eyes long to discover it. "Why there it is," he cried. "It's walking down the road by itself—so it must be magic."

"Yes, sir! That's it as sure as you're born," said Daddy, stopping his dust-pan in a tree-top so they could watch.

Pretty soon the magic fork and the magic teapot came back with a ten-course dinner while they took inside the hunting lodge to the king.

The travelers were so surprised at everything they saw they had almost forgotten about their errand and the House-That-Jack-Built.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

By RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.
"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vignette picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave under orders of King James. He is bought by Colonel Bishop, the military commander, and falls in love with Arabella, the niece of the colonel. Spies bombard the city and sack it. Blood saves Arabella and Mary Trill. He captures the ship and sails for Tortuga, the rendezvous of buccanniers of the Spanish Main. There Captain Blood, tormented by his fear that he will never see Arabella again and importuned by his comrades, takes command of a private fleet. Levasseur, a Frenchman, enlists under him. Levasseur captures a Dutch vessel and lands with Madelon d'Ogeron, daughter of the Dutch governor, and her brother on one of the Virgin Islands. There he demands ransom for d'Ogeron and holds Madelon as hostage. Upon this scene enters Captain Blood whose ship had lost sight of Levasseur's vessel in the storm.

CHAPTER XV—Continued

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own—a personal matter. They are French."

"You do not take her while I live," he cried.

"French!" Captain Blood's light eyes flashed at Levasseur, then at the prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

The prisoner answered for him. "I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"D'Ogeron?" Captain Blood started. "Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saints preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the deck that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this lady and this gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that admit no ambiguities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crew and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the prizes taken on your last cruise and for such an offense as that I articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added "If you dislike my conduct we will dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when I am in the man-of-war that I choose, and that will be so soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed up to this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and, as I gather, the lady is to be your prize. But why should she be your prize more than another's, seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are ultimately to come to you as the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

That Captain Blood should dare oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his back and call never entered the ruffian's mind. But he did not reckon on the cupidity of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added:

"Then let some one buy the prisoners who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"I have," said Captain Blood. "You have!" Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand, and Cahusac appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur in his anger sprang at Cahusac, and a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur, his hand on his sword, his face a white mask of rage, confronted Captain Blood.

"You do not take her while I live!" he cried.

"Then I'll take her when you're dead," said Captain Blood, and his own blade flashed in the sunlight.

It was soon over. When, with both lungs transfixed, he lay prone on the white sand, Captain Blood looked calmly at Cahusac across the body.

"I think that cancels the articles between us," he said.

With soulless, cynical eyes Cahusac and his mates considered the twitching body of their recent leader. Captain Blood had brought them to find Levasseur guilty of the one offense they deemed unpardonable, the crime of appropriating to himself something which might be converted into gold and shared amongst them all. Whilst still they hesitated, Blood added something to quicken their decision.

"If you will come to our anchorage, you shall receive at once your share of the booty of the Santiago, that you may dispose of it as you please."

They crossed the island, the two prisoners accompanying them, and later that day, the division made, they would have parted company but that Cahusac, at the instances of the men who had elected him Levasseur's successor, offered Captain Blood anew the services of that French contingent.

"If you will sail with me again," the Captain answered him, "you may do so on the condition that you make your peace with the Dutch, and restore the brig and her cargo."

The condition was accepted, and Captain Blood went off to find his guests, the children of the Governor of Tortuga.

Mademoiselle d'Ogeron and her brother—the latter, a relieved of his bonds—sat in a great cabin of the Arabella, whether they had been conducted. He doffed his feathered hat, and came forward to the table.

"Mademoiselle," said he in his vile but fine French, "I beg you to dismiss your fears. Aboard this ship you shall be treated with all honor. As soon as we are in case to go to sea again, we steer a course for Tortuga to take you home to your father. And pray do consider that I have bought you at a cost. If you please, a friendly loan to be repaid entirely at your convenience."

Mademoiselle stared at him in unbelief.

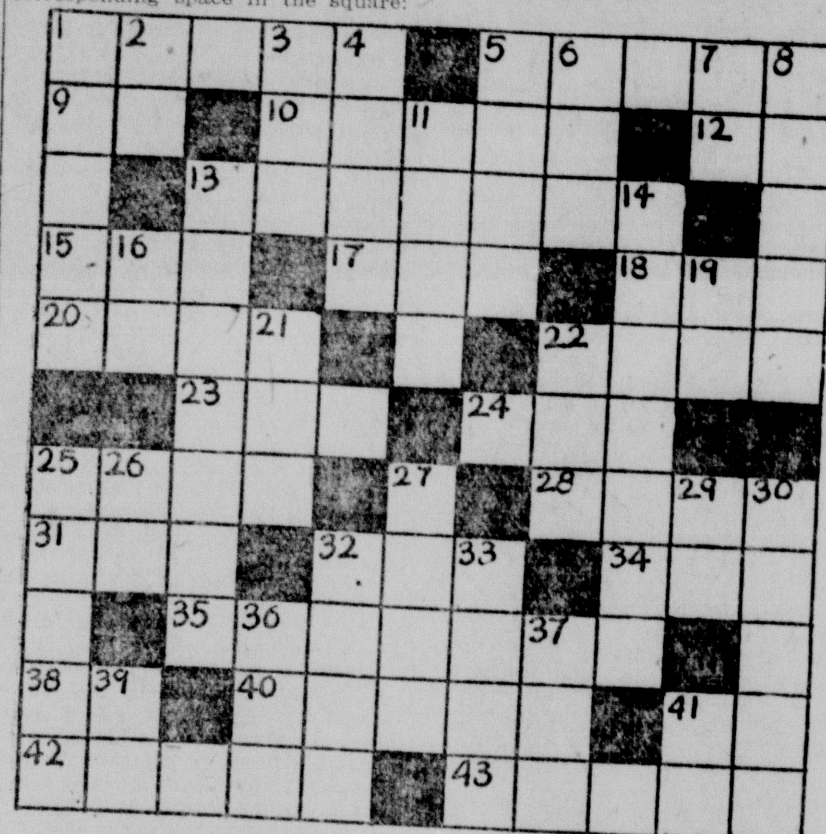

"Oh, you are noble!"

Captain Blood sighed. For the whole truth, which he withheld from Mademoiselle d'Ogeron, was that in venturing his life to save her, he had been driven by the thought that the deed must be pleasing in the eyes of Miss Bishop could she but witness it.

Behrendt should get as much credit as any one on the team for he was the one who kept the opponents from running up a score. Cloyd Ostrander not only played a good game in guarding but made some very clever passes which enabled his team to win the victory. Carl Walters and Oliver Finkbinder were the fellows who did the quick passing, keeping the ball near the home goal. The team will have its next game Friday Nov. 7, when West Brooklyn comes to Harmon. West Brooklyn beat Harmon by two points at West Brooklyn but the Harmon boys have been improving so much that West Brooklyn will have to do some fast work to keep up with Harmon.

The school is planning to give a good program some night near Thanksgiving. We are announcing this early so that people may have an opportunity to watch for the date. The program at the night of the basket social was of such high class that we have asked to let every one know when there is to be another such treat. One of the debates for that night is Willard T. Long who recently made a grade of 100 in Latin examination in the St. Mary's High School in Sterling. He also made a grade of 97 in French. As he is one of our last year's graduates we are much pleased to learn of his good work. Another debater that night will be Cleggett Huyett who is now attending the Dixon High School. He is another of our last year's graduates. Cleggett wrote the class prophecy last spring and it showed so much ability that we know the school will some time in the future hear or be able to read another original production by him. Last but not least we wish to announce that another Harmon boy is going to be on the program that night. That is Douglas Considine who won first honors in typing for Dixon at Freeport, and first honors for Dixon on the Declamatory Contest at Amboy last spring. He can not only write stories and essays and type but he is also known to have ability in speaking. Although he is editor in chief of the Dixon high school annual for this year which is a work which means hours and hours of careful work, we have been able to secure his promise to favor us with an oration on that occasion.

MANY SINGERS HAVE VOICE TO GET TO FRONT But Fail to Acquire Necessary Work to Win Honors.

Two questions are asked repeatedly of every great singer in the course of a season's tour: "Are there any real opportunities for young American singers today?"

"What are your favorite songs?"

Mme Schumann-Heineke is to sing here on Wednesday evening, Nov. 6th at the Dixon Theater and she made up her mind before the season opened to answer these two personal in advance.

"I could name a half dozen young Americans who are coming rapidly to the front right now," is her reply to the first. "But I'm not going to do it. I'm a peaceable person. This I will say, let a voice of real merit appear with musical sense and determination to back it up, and watch the managers scramble to get it!"

"But there's the trouble. Young singers are so eager to 'get there.' Too many of them have good enough voices, but no talent. Others have the voices and the ability, but they simply will not work. The three together are absolutely necessary."

"First, let competent critics—and when I say 'critics' I do not mean vocal teachers—make certain that you have the voice. It will quickly appear whether or not you have musical instincts. If you are lucky enough to have these, too, and if you are patient and not afraid of years of hard work, you ought to be successful. Above all, you must deny yourself luxury, must content yourself with simple living and must not permit yourself to be beaten by disappointment."

"Of course, I am speaking only of those who contemplate a professional career. There are plenty of good instructors for those who desire only to sing for the pleasure of themselves and their friends. And we can't have too much of that. The more people are singing in the homes, in churches and on the local concert stages the better."

"In brief, the answer is: Be sure you have the goods before you attempt to deliver them, then pound away until you do."

"My favorite songs? My songs are like my children—I love them all. If I said that I loved my eldest child the best, or that the youngest was my favorite, that would not be right, and I am not that kind of a mother. I couldn't enumerate my favorite songs, because I couldn't decide where to stop."

Mme Schumann-Heineke is touring again this season under the New York management of S. Hurok, Inc.

Tricks of FAKE MEDIUMS

BY HOWARD THURSTON
America's Master Magician

When a "medium" produces psychic "manifestations" for the benefit of one sitter, he can often resort to trickery that would be impossible with a large group. The "finger-tip test" is a striking example.

The medium holds the forefinger of each hand a few inches from the eyes of the "sitter," and tells him to close his eyes.

Immediately the "sitter" feels the touch of a finger on each eyelid which proves that both the medium's hands are occupied. Nevertheless, something touches the "sitter's" head; a bell rings, and other manifestations take place, until the medium finally removes his hands.

The swindle took place the moment the "sitter" closed his eyes. Then the medium extended TWO fingers of ONE hand, and set one on each of the sitter's eyes! This left the other hand free to produce the manifestations.

Illinois Voters

GOOD CITIZENS VOTE. Those who neglect to vote are not so good; they shirk their responsibility. As an obligation of citizenship, every man and woman of lawful age should cast a ballot Tuesday, November 4.

Men and women who know American institutions vote for a party, and not for individuals. In America the party governs. For sixty-eight years either the Republican party or the Democratic party has been in power at Washington and at Springfield. Either the Republican party or the Democratic party will be in authority at Washington and at Springfield for the coming four years. Upon the party records, as written into the history of America, the Republican party organization believes voters of Illinois should

Mark a Cross in the Republican Circle

Republican party candidates were chosen by the voters of their party; the party is responsible for their selection; they are responsible to the party as well as to the public.

Calvin Coolidge for President, was the overwhelming choice of the Republican National Convention at Cleveland. For his steadfast adherence to national traditions, his sturdy honesty and executive genius, he has the confidence of the American people.

Charles S. Deneen for United States Senator, was nominated in a direct primary by the Republican voters of Illinois. His record as Governor for eight years and as States Attorney of Cook County for eight years is a part of the history of the state's progress to greatness; his accomplishments in office are the boasts of Illinoisans as citizens.

Len Small for Governor, was renominated by a majority vote of the Republican men and women of Illinois. The building of 4,600 miles of paved road in four years without cost in direct taxes; the reduction of rates to utility patrons of $25,000,000 per year, with improved service; the reduction of the death rate in Illinois from 13.6 to 11.4 per thousand; the reduction of the tax rate from 47.5 cents to 43.3 cents in the $100 are historical accomplishments of his administration.

Taxes will be of utmost importance for the next four years. At Washington, following a Democratic administration, a Republican administration has cut the income-tax $1,380,000,000 per year. At Springfield a—

Democratic administration after four years of an average tax rate of 63.25 cents in the $100, left a balance in the general fund of $528.82

Republican administrations in seven years (including the war period), have had an average tax rate of 53.38 cents in the $100, and on October 1, 1924, there was in the general fund $11,557,729.54

To back Coolidge with Deneen in the Senate and a Republican majority in the House; to back Small with administration officials committed to Republican policies and a Republican Legislature; for lower taxes, more good roads, better and cheaper utility service and efficient administration: Vote. And because the straight ballot is the easy ballot and is always counted, Vote the Straight Republican Ticket!

THE HIDE AND THE TAIL.

One of the humorous phases of the present presidential campaign is the manner in which democrats are appealing to the republicans to save them from themselves.

Democrats are calling upon republicans to prepare to vote for Davis in the event of a deadlock in the house of representatives, to prevent Charles W. Bryan from becoming vice president and thereby acting as president.

Although it appears now that there is less chance of the election going into the house of representatives than at any other time in the campaign, democrats have been putting forth propaganda in consideration of such a situation. In the house of representatives five states will be deadlocked so they can not cast on the presidency, because of equal numbers of republicans and democrats in their congressional delegations. Democrats are advancing the thought that it will require the switching of only one republican of each of these delegations to the democratic side to cast the state vote for Davis, and that republicans will be so inclined to keep Bryan from becoming president through election to the vice presidency by the senate.

Because of the number of republicans concerned in the five delegations, it is impossible to predict what they will do. But republicans may fail to see the difference between democrats that the democrats themselves profess to see. They may be unable to see why Davis should be appointed and Bryan committed to the lower regions.

It is within possibilities that they will tell the democrats that they must assume full responsibility for any democrat who reaches the white house. Using a rural expression, they may say, Let the tail go with the hide.

If the democrats are afraid Bryan will become the chief executive through chaos that will follow failure to elect in the usual manner, they still have time and opportunity to vote for Coolidge and to end such possibilities.

It may be that republicans will not care to share responsibility even for placing John W. Davis in the white house. Should a deal be made whereby republicans would elect Davis to the presidency on a trade for Dawes in the vice presidency, what assurance is there that Mr. Bryan would not be made secretary of state, or that he would not be given some other such position of prominence? It would be only common decency among democrats, and we are told that Bryan was the choice of Davis for the second place on the ticket. Would Davis dare throw him overboard now to grasp the presidency for himself?

The democrats plea that the republicans save them from themselves at least brings humor to the situation.

THE COMPLICATED MR. McADOO.

There was nothing the matter with Mr. McAdoo during the months he was campaigning for the nomination, but the moment the Democratic convention turned him down his health called him to Europe. Upon his return he permitted himself to be photographed with Candidate Davis, and we were told that he was to make some speeches in behalf of his party. But demands of health again intervened and what is described as a "minor operation" will keep him off the speakers' platform for another period of time. It is not impossible that a complication of some sort will extend his retirement beyond Nov. 4.

Governor Al Smith, that other sterling leader of Democrat who shared honors with McAdoo at the New York convention, made a great show of party loyalty following the Davis nomination. Heralded by the blare of many trumpets and the shrieks of his East Side rooters, he strode upon the platform and told the world that he was about to cast aside his coat and vest and work heart and soul for the election of Davis. But the coat and vest still adorn the Smith torso, while the wearer sticks close to New York and gives undivided attention to his own re-election as governor.

The bitter convention contest that alienated the two principal leaders of Democracy, McAdoo and Smith, from the Davis following has spread its influence throughout the rank and file of the party. The Democratic campaign is chiefly notable for its lack of enthusiasm. Mr. Davis goes through the motions expected of a candidate, but what he says and his manner of saying it have aroused no response. Democrats who permit their emotions to get the better of their intelligence are going over to the LaFollette camp where there is plenty of excitement. Those old liners who believe in the Constitution and stability of government are moving into the Coolidge column.

Los Angeles Times: Senator Brookhart's effort to read Calvin Coolidge out of the Republican Party only shows him up as a bum reader.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 12—THE TWINS COME TO YUM YUM LAND

"Now, I am going to have a feast."

When the King of Yum Yum Land got the magic fork and the magic teapot, he tucked them under his arm and said to his subjects:

"Goodbye, my good people. I've been king of Yum Yum Land long enough. I'm tired of chopping off people's heads, and signing papers, and deciding what wig I'll wear each morning. My good peddler friend who gave me this magic teapot and fork is going to be king in my place. I am going to live in my hunting lodge in the forest."

With that he strode three strides to the door and was gone, fork, teapot and all.

No sooner had he gone than the peddler came out of his hiding place and strode three strides up to the throne and sat down.

"I'm king now," said he. "Fall down and bump your heads."

So the subjects all knelt down and bumped their heads, all but the cook, who felt very badly over the way he had been treated, and sneaked out of a side door.

Then he went back to his kitchen and sulked, for he felt that he should at least be Lord High Caretaker of the Bord Cages.

Off in the forest the king reached his hunting lodge. First he took off his hat and he took off his coat and then he sat down before a blazing fire, for it was getting pretty cool and kings mustn't be allowed to have cold hunting lodges in case they should decide to take a notion to go hunting and follow a deer and get tired out and night be coming on and too far from the castle to go back and—

There! What was I talking about? Oh, yes. The King sat down in front of the fire.

"Now," said he. "I am going to have a feast. A real feast and no bothersome cooks about or anything."

It was only half past four in the afternoon and the king was still full of his roasted butterfies and soda water, but he didn't care about that.

So he said to the magic teapot: "Go do your best, go do your worst. Or, teapot, dear, I'll die of thirst."

And he said to the magic fork: "Oh magic fork, I'd like a treat. Please see what you can find to eat."

Instantly the teapot and the fork went clackety, clack to the door and disappeared down the road.

Now right overhead, if the king had chanced to look out of the window, he would have seen as queer a sight as a walking fork and teapot.

He would have seen a flying dustpan, and on it, sitting very comfortably, a boy and girl and a fat old man in a green suit. They were no others than Daddy Gander and the Twins.

They had just arrived in Yum Yum Land and they were looking down to see if they could catch a glimpse of the very fork the king had sent to do his errand.

It didn't take Nick's sharp eyes long to discover it. "Why there it is," he cried. "It's walking down the road by itself—so it must be magic."

"Yes, sir! That's it as sure as you're born," said Daddy, stopping his dustpan in a tree-top so they could watch.

Pretty soon the magic fork and the magic teapot came back with a ten-course dinner while they took inside the hunting lodge to the king.

The travelers were so surprised at everything they saw they had almost forgotten about their errand and the House-That-Jack-Built.

Shadows

Hal Cochran's
DAILY POEM

Shadows often flicker when you lie in bed at night. Make your pulse beat quicker when they bring you sudden fright. Mister Moon is shining and he peeps into your room. Oft his silver lining breaks the darkness and the gloom. Glaring through the tree leaves, it would seem that he had gall, to try to make you think that he's artistic on the wall. When the wind is blowing hard a little leaflet shakes. Then your ceiling's quickly marred with faces Moonman makes.

Your imagination lets you see a lot of things, funny, queer and fanciful, that Mister Moonman brings. How they show so plainly you can never understand. Yet they seem like little folks that come from fairyland. Quiet reigns supremely in your bedroom every night. Then it's just a mystic land when you turn out the light. Watch the little shadows as they on your ceiling creep. Just give Mister Moon a chance; he'll shadow you to sleep.

LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AT WEST BROOKLYN

First Steps for Such an Organization Taken at Meeting Tuesday.

West Brooklyn—Henry L. Gehant was down from Dixon, Wednesday, and shelled corn for several parties north of town.

Mrs. Nellie Katzwinkel spent several days here visiting at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Erbes.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bodmer were over from the vicinity of Steward, Wednesday and visited their many friends.

Many of our residents thought there was a Klan gathering on in town Wednesday evening when figures clothed in white sheets scampered here and there about the streets or drove into town in autos, but it was only a Halloween party being given the members of the Domestic Science Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Morrissey.

A car was discovered burning in a ditch west of the John Derr corner one morning this week. It later developed that the car had been stolen and it is thought that it was run into the ditch by hand and later set fire to.

William Kehn pulled his clover huller home Wednesday after having completed his run south of town. Will says the yield is the poorest since he has been in the threshing business, hence this will mean high prices next year.

The hard-time dance given at the school hall Tuesday evening was a record breaker. There were 98 admissions sold. The next big event will be the Halloween dance in the opera house Friday night.

Claude Smith was here from Amboy Wednesday looking after the interests of the I. N. U. Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sonderoth moved their household goods from the Gehant & Long farm to the John Dargatz residence where Peter intends taking up the carpenter trade. Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Heidemann immediately moved into the place vacated and will operate the dairy farm.

Charles Atkinson and workmen completed their gravel contract Wednesday. The gravel did not hold out to the township corner but stopped at the George Montavon farm lane. This is a disappointment to motorists for it will mean one more mile of mud to encounter. The unloading apparatus on the village lot was torn down and hauled back to Dixon Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bittner were over from Shaw's visiting friends Thursday enroute to Mendota where they visited with his brother, Wm. Bittner, who is confined at the Harris hospital with a bad case of blood poisoning.

Many of our farmers started corn picking in earnest Thursday. Owing to the high prices asked by huskers a number of corn picking machines were purchased.

Miss Henry Hildmann, Mrs. Josie Slack and Emma Hildmann and lady friend returned to their home in Rockford after a week's visit here at the homes of their sisters and other friends.

The village board placed an order with a southern concern for the 18 inch tile for the proposed new sewer system on First street. This will afford the draining of several of the streets on the south side as well as giving the residents outlets for their cellar drains. The work of laying the tile will be let out by contract.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Chaon moved into the Alexander Henry residence into the "where they will make their home."

Charles Clark was able to be about town again Tuesday after being laid up for sometime as a result of a fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haggerman welcomed a baby girl to their home Wednesday.

Mrs. M. T. Broffle was here from Inlet shopping Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sorrenson were in LaSalle the latter part of the week visiting friends and relatives.

There will be another big dance in the opera house Thursday evening November 6th.

Charles Barnickel was here from the vicinity of Mendota Saturday.

Mrs. James Phelan and daughter, Miss Margaret returned home Tuesday from Milwaukee where they had been called owing to the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. McClintock.

William Barnickel, Joseph Auchstetter and William Bauer were among those who shelled and delivered their corn to market this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Derr entertained the members of the domestic science club and their husbands Sunday evening at their home. A fine musical program had been arranged by Mrs. Derr followed by progressive cuisine and a sumptuous luncheon after in the evening.

Frank Theban and son, Jerome, were out from Chicago Sunday and visited at the F. W. Meyer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Knauer entertained a number of friends at their home Sunday evening with an elaborate party.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Bieschke were out from Ayre over Sunday and visited at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aubert Bieschke, etc.

Oliver Gehant "as a business visitor" in Dixon Thursday.

Fred S. Dale was up from the vicinity of Harmon Wednesday and called upon his many old friends and neighbors.

Miss Vera Gehant and a friend were out from Aurora and visited at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Malach.

A meeting of the business men was held Tuesday evening for the purpose of incorporating a local chamber of commerce. Dr. E. C. White was selected as president, F. W. Meyer, vice president and Oliver L. Gehant, secretary and treasurer. A committee was named with Father Quinn, Dr. A. Bernardin and J. H. Micher to draft a set of by-laws governing membership fees and duties of members as well as outlining a program of work for the organization to do. A thing of this kind has been needed in our village for some little time.

Frank Herman drove to Dixon Thursday where he installed a radio set in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gehant.

Mrs. Kate Tressler has eliminated the fire hazard from the hotel by the addition of composition shingles.

The workmen have completed their task of laying the cables for the telephone lines and now the poles and wires are being taken down.

ABE MARTIN

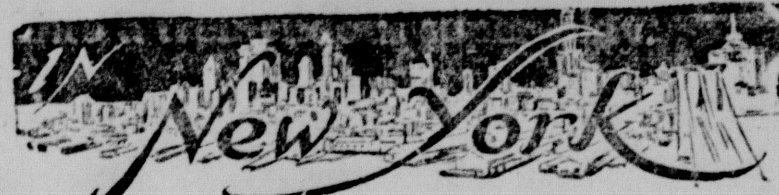

"Eventually, why not this fall?" is the slogan of Arie Small, candidate for sheriff, who's out for government ownership of bus lines. A Mexican dog is the only animal left that don't finally end up in a fur coat or neck piece.

Government is Host to New Mexican President

Washington, Oct. 31—The government of the United States was host today to Plutarco Elias Calles, president-elect of Mexico. Representatives of the state department and the Mexican embassy were assigned to greet the distinguished visitor, who is enroute from Europe to Mexico, upon his arrival from New York in the afternoon, and a troop of cavalry was detailed to guard him throughout his stay in Washington.

After a formal call at the State department at 3:30 p. m., and a reception by President Coolidge at the White House an hour later, the president-elect will be the guest of honor at a dinner in the Pan-American Union Building.

New York—There are several dance halls in the neighborhood of Third avenue and Thirty-fourth street patronized exclusively by Oriental men and white women. Then men are Filipinos, Japs and a few Hawaiians.

Around midnight you see them leaving, the white girls on the arms of yellow men. The men as a rule are dressed in the latest cake-eater styles. Many of them wear sideburns, in the Valentino manner.

No one is admitted to these dance halls except the Orientals who are members of an operating club and the white women who are employed as dancing partners. There are 30 such dance halls in Greater New York and they are known as "closed" halls. Several in Brooklyn are operated exclusively by Chinese.

In all there are 238 dance halls in the city. The paid admissions in 1923 totalled more than 6,100,000. Some of the Broadway dance halls which accommodate hundreds of couples have scores of "hostesses," men who attend without girls pay ten cents a dance when they dance with a hostess. She receives four cents of that.

In one of the ballrooms of higher order men pay 35 cents to dance with a hostess. She receives 25 cents of that sum. Tips are not nearly so frequent and liberal as they are generally expected to be.

Much of the dancing patronage in mid-town comes from lonesome visitors, hotel transients who know nobody here and in their loneliness turn to the dance hall.

No matter how well a professional dancing partner might like a casual acquaintance, her association with him is limited to the dancing floor. She would lose her job if she were found making appointments with patrons outside the dance hall.

There are two haberdasheries in the Times Square district that keep open all night. The only barber shop that remains open 24 hours a day, insofar as I know, is one sandwiched between Chatham Square and Chinatown.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 30—Engagement of Lieut. Eric Nelson, world flier and Miss Ruth Butler of Dayton, Ohio, was announced tonight through the Los Angeles Times.

Coolidge and Davis Will Talk Over Same "Hook-up"
Washington, Oct. 31—The radio "hookup" by which President Coolidge will make his final address next Monday night, also will carry a speech by John W. Davis, plans having been completed by telephone calls to make facilities available to the democratic candidate on the same night but at a different hour.
